BUILDING BRIGHTER FUTURES

for 45 Years

2023 COMMUNITY IMPACT REPORT

A woman with shoulder-length brown hair, wearing a purple ribbed turtleneck sweater and a light purple skirt with a matching sash, stands on the left. She is smiling and looking towards the camera. To her right stands an older man with white hair, wearing a blue suit jacket, a white shirt, and a purple patterned tie. He is also smiling and looking towards the camera. They are standing in front of a large window with a view of a city skyline. The lighting is bright and natural, suggesting an indoor setting with large windows.

Since 1978, The Family Place has truly been where family violence stops. I've been involved since 2012 and am so proud of all the strong, creative, and resilient people at the agency who work hard every day to help survivors find a path from fear and hopelessness to safety and success. I'm also thankful for the generous donors and volunteers who support The Family Place and make so many brighter futures possible.

—Harold Ginsburg, Chairman of the Board

BUILDING BRIGHTER FUTURES

Hanging in my daughter's closet are some brightly colored toddler overalls, a daily reminder of the value of The Family Place. They're a hand-me-down from an extended friend-like-family member. The precious little girl who once wore them and her older brother were killed by their father during a scheduled unsupervised visitation. After murdering his children, he killed himself.

One in three Texans will experience domestic violence. With statistics like that, we know everyone knows someone. Too often, we find out we knew someone when it's too late—after the damage is done and the headlines have run.

Since 1978, The Family Place has worked to prevent the heartbreak and the headlines with services that save lives and transform them for the better. Faith and Liberty Battaglia lost their lives in Dallas in 2001 the same way my friends did. Their tragedy was a catalyst for an amendment to the Texas Family Code regarding court-ordered supervised visitation and the opening of our Faith and Liberty's Place Family Center in 2003. We're proud to have turned that headline into groundbreaking services.

The Family Place never sleeps. We invest in our teams who operate 24/7/365 to keep our hotline and three shelters, including the state's only shelter for men and children, open and ready to prevent family violence survivors from becoming headlines. You will read about our lifesaving and life-changing programs in this community impact report—from emergency shelter and transitional housing to counseling and extensive community education. We were one of the first, and now our comprehensive resources make us the largest family violence organization in the state, providing services to nearly 20,000 unduplicated individuals in 2022.

Another service that sets us apart is our court-ordered Battering Intervention and Prevention Program. Since 1984, we have taught offenders how to identify, challenge, and change core beliefs that support the use of violence with their intimate partners. We are truly addressing every angle of the cycle of violence. At the other end of the spectrum is our largest program in terms of numbers reached—our Be Project teen dating violence and sexual assault prevention education in area schools. Be Project has taught kids about healthy relationships since 1999, and reached 5,424 students in 2022 with messages about how to Be Safe, Be Kind, Be Courageous, and Be More.

2023 is The Family Place's 45th anniversary. All year long, we're focusing on how we're building brighter futures. I believe Be Project can be the key to that work. We're hoping a collaboration with One Love Foundation, a national nonprofit with a mission to end relationship abuse through education, will help us scale. The namesake of One Love Foundation was also the subject of a headline. Yeardeley Love died three weeks before her graduation from the University of Virginia. She was a leader on the lacrosse team, and her family and friends say to know her was to love her. Her life was cut short by someone who claimed he did.

This year we have the largest budget in the history of The Family Place—$17 million—and every one of those dollars is tied to building brighter futures. The photographs in this report tell that story through our community—the leaders and donors who give their time, talent, and resources; the clients saved from the headlines and willing to share their experiences to save others; the public servants who support us through policy; and the staff members who dedicate themselves wholeheartedly to our cause. I hope you will find them as inspiring as we do!

With gratitude,

Mimi Crume Sterling
Chief Executive Officer

I got married right after high school and stayed in that abusive relationship for eight years before reaching out for help. When I came to The Family Place's emergency shelter in 2000, I had no money or job skills. My two sons and I stayed at the shelter for 30 days and then moved into transitional housing for three months. During our stay, my boys participated in the Children's Educational Services, which meant I could take advantage of all the supportive programs. Thanks to The Family Place, I found the courage to be where I am today. I went back to college and now have my Ph.D. in Education. I used to be shy, had low self-esteem, and didn't believe in myself. The Family Place showed me and my children that there are people who care about you without even knowing you, and I will be forever grateful.

—Aaliyah Miranda, former client and Board Member

the family place

When we moved here over 40 years ago, I didn't know anyone. A couple of new friends asked me to come to some meetings of The Family Place Partners. Before I knew it, I was hooked and had joined the board. I liked what The Family Place did and how they did it. When the idea of the Partners Card came up, Sally Johnson and I chaired it the first two years. I'm very proud of Partners Card and the important work it funds.

—Sally Hoglund, donor, The Hoglund Foundation, namesake of our Sally's House emergency shelter, and Foundation Board Member

The Family Place has become a trusted institution in our city for its transformational work to end cycles of domestic violence. I am excited and honored to serve on this board and to join the effort to educate the public and advocate on behalf of our families.

—Nakita Johnson, City of Dallas First Lady and Board Member

Public safety comes first in our city because everyone deserves to feel safe in their community and in their own home. The Family Place has been a leader in Dallas for 45 years, and its critical efforts have supported survivors, increased awareness, and made our city safer.

—Eric Johnson, City of Dallas Mayor

Feeding the families in our care is truly a joy for me—especially when I see so many children appreciating the food we serve. Often the survivors we shelter have suffered not only from abuse but also from food insecurity. Providing them with three hot meals and two healthy snacks each day is a critical piece of making sure they feel safe, and I'm proud of the role I play in that.

—Cyro Foster, Food Services Manager

Our 2023 budget strives to make sure our client experience is excellent, our staff members are engaged and supported, our donors have the highest confidence in us, and community leaders continue to be invested in our partnerships. CIR2023

To eliminate intimate partner violence, it's imperative to focus attention and resources on providing services for offenders. Without them, even with adequate shelter to meet demand, our painstaking work will continue to fall short. In our psychoeducational program for offenders, we address the source of the violence and challenge pro-abuse beliefs to protect not only the current victim but also countless others they may encounter in the future.

—Benjamin Lee Meneses, Battering Intervention and Prevention Program Director
